

Online Safety

E-safety is an important part of keeping children safe at Wallands Community Primary School. Pupils are taught how to stay safe online.

Digital technology is an everyday part of most people's lives and provides entertainment and education. Children need to be taught about how to keep themselves safe when using technology. These skills need to be consistent in school and at home. It is important that all adults speak to children about how they can keep safe and behave appropriately online. We have put together a list of some useful websites that may help parents at home.

The 'UK Safer Internet Centre' has some great advice for parents. It includes the latest research for screen time boundaries.

The 'online safety NSPCC' website also has some useful guides on how to talk to your children about their use of the internet; how to set up parental controls and also a section on the different types of social network.

Common Sense Media has advice for parents, alongside a section which reviews apps and games suitable for children of all ages.
